5 WAYS TO CELEBRATE NATIONAL AVIATION DAY

FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, IS NATIONAL AVIATION DAY IN THE UNITED STATES.

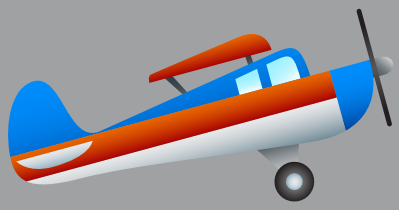

In 1939, President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed this day as National Aviation Day to help celebrate the development of powered aviation.

This is a day of national aviation awareness and an opportunity to promote your aviation business.

Why this day? It was the birthday of Orville Wright.

GO FLY

If you are blessed to have your pilot's license, what are you doing still reading this? Get up there!

HAVE A HANGAR PARTY

Get your pals together for some good music, good food, and embrace the spirit of aviation in a one of a kind party setting.

Think you've lost too much and forgotten everything? Afraid it'll be like starting over? No worries! Rusty Pilots will get you back in the left seat fast.

TAKE SOMEONE FLYING!

Share your love of aviation with someone else. This is the perfect day to help someone take the first step to discover the fun, freedom, and accomplishment of becoming a pilot.

VISIT AN AIR AND SPACE MUSEUM

Typically, every city has an aviation themed museum near their airport. We are partial to The Smithsonian Air and Space Museum in Washington, which will be reading "Away in My Airplane" by Margaret Wise Brown.
