

2006 SAFETY AND PHILANTHROPY REPORT
AOPA Air Safety Foundation

MESSAGE FROM: PHIL BOYER
PRESIDENT, AIRCRAFT OWNERS AND PILOTS ASSOCIATION

Seemingly ordinary events can sometimes lead to extraordinary results. I count my first meeting with Bruce Landsberg in the late 1980s as one of those events.

I was at ABC producing a Wide World of Flying segment on simulator-based training at FlightSafety International. Bruce was FlightSafety's marketing manager who arranged for a course covering my Cessna 340. Although I planned to work on scripts for the show each night after training, Bruce strongly suggested that simultaneous flight training and TV production might be overwhelming. But as a busy TV exec who already had logged a fair amount of time in the 340, I confidently thought otherwise.

Bruce was absolutely correct. It was the most grueling week I had ever had.

We met again a few years later when as AOPA president I led the search for Admiral Don Engen's successor at the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. Bruce's outstanding credentials and vision for aviation safety education made him the top choice. And I joked, making him my colleague would be suitable revenge for the tough week I had at FlightSafety!

Under Bruce's leadership now for 15 years, the AOPA Air Safety Foundation plays a vital role in improving GA safety. His emphasis on data analysis, his adoption of new technologies and his creative drive are among his many contributions. With Bruce and his staff dedicated to GA safety, I can focus on leading AOPA on its multi-part mission of advocacy and member services.

While Bruce has been the catalyst for the advances in GA safety education, your generous support has been the enabling force. Your growing and continuing donations to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation are anything but ordinary. In fact they are producing extraordinary results today, and will continue to do so for years to come.

Safe Flying,

Phil Boyer

MESSAGE FROM: BRUCE LANDSBERG

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, AOPA AIR SAFETY FOUNDATION

You may not have realized it, but you and I are co-captains of an aircraft on an important mission, one in which I have been involved for the past 15 years. Our “aircraft” in this case is the AOPA Air Safety Foundation.

It’s a good analogy because the Foundation is a powerful vehicle for carrying the message of improving general aviation safety to pilots across the country. We have kept the airplane well-maintained, installed new technologies, and updated its appearance. Careful budgeting sometimes has meant that we have pulled the throttle back and leaned aggressively to conserve fuel. But we have completed many productive flights together.

We pilot the AOPA Air Safety Foundation as we would any airplane. We “fly by the numbers” and use GA accident data to tell us where we need to devote our attention and resources. We adopt new tools, including the Internet and DVDs, to complete more missions by reaching more pilots. We also apply the judgment and intangible skills that come from experience. That includes producing effective educational materials that have a “sparkle” that captures and holds pilots’ interest.

Accidents are tremendously costly in terms of human suffering, negative public perception, litigation, potential regulation and cost of aircraft and parts. We look for ways to reach the new pilot, to help them understand risk, to remind the veteran that the most critical flight is his or her next one. Despite the long-term improvements, there is much more to be done.

Your growing donations are the fuel that powers the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. Increased funding enables us to create many new and better programs and to broaden our outreach. And we are expanding our frame of reference, producing important new research on the aging pilot population, and on the use of low-cost simulator technology in initial and recurrent training. To put it another way, we now have the fuel on board to increase our speed and range. In fact, I believe the AOPA Air Safety Foundation will accomplish more over the next five years than we have in the past 55.

It’s an exciting time for our productive partnership. And with your continued support I’m looking forward to the years ahead.

Sincerely,

Bruce Landsberg

AOPA AIR SAFETY FOUNDATION: HIGHLIGHTS OF GA ACCIDENT TRENDS FOR 2005

Total and fatal accident rates in the United States rose slightly from 2004.

The numbers of total and fatal pilot-related accidents increased, accounting for three-quarters of all accidents and more than 80 percent of the fatal accidents.

Maneuvering flight produced the largest number of pilot-related fatal accidents and accounted for one out of three fatal crashes in 2005. Maneuvering flight was also the number one fatal accident category for single-engine fixed gear aircraft.

Weather accident statistics improved in 2005. The majority of fatal weather accidents in single-engine aircraft resulted from VFR flight into IMC.

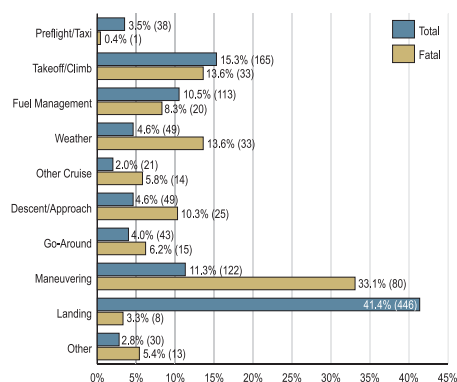

Accidents during personal flying accounted for about 70 percent of all accidents about 80 percent of all fatal accidents.

Accidents are more likely to occur during the day than at night and in VMC than IMC.

“While the sky certainly isn’t falling, the record that we chalked up in 2005 could stand some improvement,” said AOPA Air Safety Foundation Executive Director, Bruce Landsberg.

Early data for 2006 indicates an overall improvement in GA safety with the number of total accidents down 11 percent.

In Memorium

Scott Crossfield was a true pioneer, a friend, and a gentleman. He was also an AOPA member and a dedicated supporter of general aviation. We mourn his passing last year in the crash of his airplane near an area of Level 6 thunderstorms. We are reminded that weather is no respecter of experience or fame. But we also celebrate Mr. Crossfield’s love of aviation and re-dedicate ourselves to advancing flying safety.

AOPA AIR SAFETY FOUNDATION: ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND OUTREACH

Thanks to the growing generosity of our donors, the AOPA Air Safety Foundation is increasing its outreach to pilots. Overall outreach increased nearly 24 percent in 2006. But our Internet-based education efforts grew as much as 137 percent from 2005, with huge increases in both Online Safety Course and Safety Quiz completions.

We still see strong growth at our live safety seminars, with the more than 39,000 pilots attending last year representing a 14-percent increase over 2005. Reactions to the seminars continue to be strongly positive.

We planned year-to-year decreases in some program areas. We curtailed the Seminar In A Box series as we began updating and re-tooling course materials. A 2 percent drop in In-Person Flight Instructor Refresher Courses (FIRC)s was more than offset by a 16-percent increase in online FIRC completions.

We will continue to execute our strategic plan that combines the best of Internet and DVD technologies, in-person courses, and a dedication to entertaining and informative educational materials.

ASF Receives Safety Award

At AOPA Expo in 2006, FAA Administrator Marion Blakey presented AOPA Air Safety Foundation with the first ever Thomas H. Wardleigh award for continuing leadership and advocacy to improve aviation safety.

AOPA AIR SAFETY FOUNDATION: PLANS AND OUTREACH

2007 Programs and Initiatives

We plan a number of new and expanded programs for 2007 including:

Research On Aging Pilots and Airplanes: As pilots and airplanes grow older, we are expanding multi-year research initiatives into the special safety and training considerations related to both pilots and aircraft.

DVD Mailings: Because many accidents involve poor pilot decision-making, not lack of skill, we will continue sending a free DVD about decision-making to all newly rated private and instrument pilots in 2007. In time for spring, all IFR pilots will receive a Weather Wise: Thunderstorms & ATC DVD from ASF.

New Interactive Courses: One new product, called Landmark Accidents will allow pilots to learn from the mistakes of others. Online accident case studies will allow pilots to dissect individual accidents and explore what should have been done differently.

Weather Hazard Education: We will enhance the Weather Wise online series with subjects including icing and thunderstorm avoidance.

New Online Courses: Among the new online safety courses are seminars on maneuvering flight and emergency procedures. These will be added to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation's Web site in 2007.

Accident Forgiveness

All pilots know that safety training pays dividends in increased awareness of how to manage the risks of flying. And now with AOPA Air Safety Foundation safety courses, it can pay off literally.

Introduced at AOPA Expo in 2006, the free Accident Forgiveness and Deductible Waiver Enhancement program encourages regular safety education. Available on select policies underwritten by participating aviation insurance companies, this valuable coverage enhancement waives a portion of the policy's deductible in the event of an accident claim. Even better, it can prevent the policy renewal rate from increasing as a result of the accident.

Most Online Safety Center courses and live AOPA Air Safety Foundation seminars qualify for the above program, as well as for FAA Wings credit.

GPS Courses

Two of the most popular courses in the Online Safety Center are the VFR and IFR GPS courses. Each running 45 to 60 minutes, the courses give pilots valuable working knowledge of common GPS functions for VFR and IFR operations. The GPS for VFR Operations course tells pilots the dos and don'ts of VFR usage and provides valuable tips for smooth in-flight operation. GPS for IFR Operations delves into how and when to use vital instrument approach procedures built into the units as well as important "gotchas" to be avoided.

Both courses were made possible by generous contributions from Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Kozmetsky.

ASF BOARD OF VISITORS: CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

It is gratifying to see the results of donor contributions and the fine work of the AOPA Air Safety Foundation staff. Each year we reach more pilots with vital safety information and the GA accident rate has continued its downward trend. We cannot become complacent. Every pilot—from the new private pilot to the high-time ATP—needs to continue safety education. In that regard we are all “student” pilots. I commend you for your support of the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. It shows your commitment to your own flying, to your fellow pilots, and to all of general aviation. Thank you.

*David Hinson, Chairman
Former FAA Administrator*

ASF: NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT CHAIRMEN

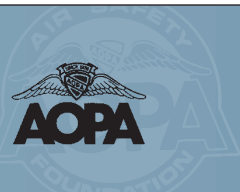

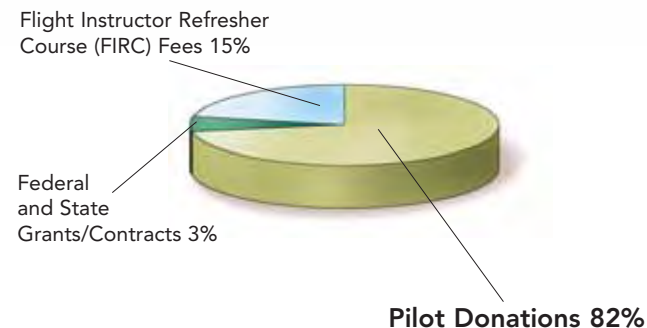

We were thrilled by the increased financial support given to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation last year. Not only did you help us fund the core database analysis and volumes of safety programs, your generosity has made possible the Foundation’s entry into applied safety research. With Bruce Landsberg's leadership we will now embark on a study of aging and flying.

Mostly we are pleased that the data indicates that the safety record for 2006 was better than 2005. Those year-after-year trends matter. And the Foundation’s role is significant in the long-term commitment to a far, far safer general aviation. Your gifts save lives. Thank you again.

"It's no coincidence that GA accidents have dramatically declined since the inception of the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. Now to take this effort to the next level, Phil and Bruce need and deserve our fullest financial support."

DONOR SOCIETIES: AOPA'S TOP PHILANTHROPISTS PAT WATERS, MEMBER

All general aviation pilots are concerned about the cost of flying, aviation insurance, airport access, and public perceptions of GA. But Pat Waters says there is one critical factor at the root of those issues: safety.

“Safety is the biggest consideration in flying,” Pat says. “And education is the way to make pilots more aware of how important safety is for GA and for themselves. Danger doesn’t care how much you’re worth or who you know. It will get you if you’re careless.”

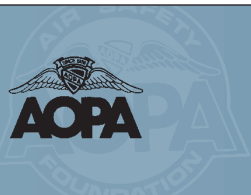

Pat has been a pilot since he was old enough to earn his license. An injury from an automobile accident halted plans to become a Naval aviator, but he resumed flying after leaving the Navy.

He flew a variety of single-engine aircraft for business and personal travel, and even flew search-and-rescue missions in a Lake amphibian in Louisiana.

Pat has been connected with AOPA since 1960. He became more heavily involved in 2002 as a member of the AOPA Air Safety Foundation Board of Visitors. “I saw an opportunity to give to something where 100 percent of my dollars go to safety.”

Reflecting Pat’s emphasis on safety education, his donation as one of AOPA’s Top Philanthropists (ATP) sponsored the Emergency Procedures seminar that has been given in 100 locations across the United States and will be placed on the ASF Web site this year.

Duty and honor are a large part of his family tradition; his grandfather was the famed general, George S. Patton Jr. “To me contributing to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation is an honor. It’s an opportunity to save lives, your own or someone else’s.” “If all of the dollars I put in save a single life, then my donation is a very small cost to me.”

DONOR SOCIETIES: AOPA'S TOP PHILANTHROPISTS $10,000 AND ABOVE

AOPA's Top Philanthropists—affectionately known as "ATPs"—are donors who contribute $10,000 or more in a calendar year. ATP donors may designate their gift to a specific area, to help fund a new initiative, or for the general good of safety and education.

ARNOLD PALMER, CHARTER MEMBER

Arnold Palmer's passion, drive, and commitment to excellence have been synonymous with golf, with philanthropy, and with general aviation for more than 50 years.

Arnie's passion for aviation began as a boy when he built balsawood model airplanes. As a PGA Tour pro, the wear and tear of driving to tournaments and other events moved him to earn his private pilot certificate in the late 1950s. Flying quickly became integral to his golfing and business activities.

"I could never have accomplished even half as much as I have in my golf and business careers over the past four decades without having my own airplanes," Arnie says.

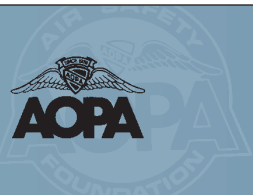

His accomplishments are far reaching. Included among scores of achievements are being named the Associated Press Athlete of the Decade for the 1960s and the 1960 Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year. The Orlando, Florida, Hospital for Children & Women is named for him, as is his hometown airport in Latrobe, Pennsylvania (KLBE).

With more than 18,000 hours, Arnie had the opportunity to fly his own airplane in formation with the Blue Angels and fly an F-16, a Boeing 747, and a McDonnell Douglas DC-10. He also set a world record by circumnavigating the globe in a Lear 36.

Safety imbues his flying. He now flies a Citation X with his chief pilot and completes annual recurrent training at FlightSafety International. His currency also extends to challenges facing general aviation, including proposed aviation user fees.

"Thanks to the creation of the aviation trust fund 36 years ago, we've been very fortunate in this country to have the very best air transportation system in the world," Arnie recently stated. "I have to ask, why in the world would we want to change a structure that works so well?"

Arnold Palmer is a champion in all senses, as a legendary golfer, as an exemplary GA pilot, and as a Charter Member of the AOPA President's Council.

"The fight for GA's future requires passion, dedication and financial commitment. There's a special place for those pilots who can provide all three: The AOPA President's Council."

DONOR SOCIETIES: THE AOPA AIR SAFETY ENDOWMENT FUND NED & SANDY BENNETT, PLATINUM-LEVEL MEMBERS

Ned Bennett remembers well the person who “called my bluff” about major support for the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. It was the man in the mirror.

“Aviation has given me so much,” says Ned, the Co-founder and Chief Operating Officer of the online options and stock brokerage OptionsXpress Holdings, Inc. “As I was building my business I thought that I would give something back. One day I called my bluff—if this was what I was going to do, then I really had to do it.”

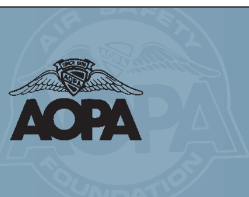

Ned and his wife, contemporary artist and Santa Fe gallery owner Sandy Zane, provided a sizeable six-figure donation to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation Endowment Fund. The money is funding much of the costs of the Pilot Safety Series—distributing safety DVDs to all new private and instrument rated pilots. The donation also will be driving initiatives including research and program development for aging pilots.

“It’s important to understand aging and flying, how we can keep our minds active, and even knowing when it’s time to quit flying,” says Ned, now 64 years old. He is an active pilot for 40 years with more than 3,400 hours.

Ned and his wife are in fact both pilots and have used general aviation aircraft for business and personal travel over the years. He now flies a Mooney for shorter trips, an L-3 Defender “for fun,” and a King Air 200 for longer hauls with a professional pilot in the right seat.

“I think that any pilot should look at what flying has meant to them and find a vehicle to give something back. Helping new pilots get started and safety education are two things that are so important for us to invest in. The return will be a healthy and safe future for GA.”

BETTY J. PATTERSON, MEMBER

Betty J. Patterson likes to fly. She flies during the week when she's not working as a software engineer. She flies on vacation. She flies to help acquaint school kids with general aviation and as a role model for girls.

With more than 1,450 hours since 1990, Betty holds a commercial certificate and instrument rating for single- and multi-engine land and seaplanes. She also has a glider rating. Betty flies a 1990 F33A Bonanza and a 1976 Starduster Too open cockpit experimental biplane. And she's logged time in a P-51, an AT-6, a Twin Beech, an Extra 300, in L-39 and T-33 jets, and in a Grumman Widgeon.

"I like to fly anything that comes my way," she says. Along with her love for flying is an equally passionate commitment to safety. "I view safety as critical," she says. "We all need to keep current and participate in recurrent training, especially related to weather and IFR flight."

Betty has completed FAA Wings Phase 15 and Seawings Phase 2. She also attends AOPA Air Safety Foundation seminars and completes online courses when she can't make it to live sessions.

To underscore her commitment, she has contributed to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation as a member of the AOPA Hat In The Ring Society. She's also an AOPA Life Member.

To Betty, air safety is essential for the future of GA. "We all have to take responsibility for safety," she says "If we can show that GA is reasonably safe, it will encourage more people to get into flying and keep GA alive."

DONOR SOCIETIES: AOPA LIFE MEMBERSHIP
LACY WILLIAMS, MEMBER

The flight restrictions enacted after the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, in the United States curtailed flying for many GA pilots. But for AOPA Life Member Lacy Williams II, the post 9/11 world meant it was time to get back to flying in a serious way.

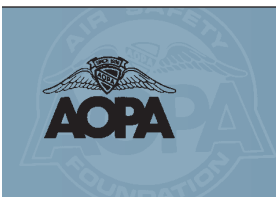

“I have about 1,000 hours since then,” says Lacy, who had started flying in college but stopped in 1987 with about 600 hours when family and business priorities increased. Lacy is President and Chief Executive Officer of Texla

Energy Management, Inc., in Houston and makes frequent day trips. “The hassles and delays of commercial air travel since 2001 became a real headache.”

“That’s when I started again,” he says, adding that he also earned his commercial and air transport pilot certificates after 9/11. He now logs several hundred hours a year in a Citation Bravo he flies with a professional pilot. “I had the means to charter aircraft but flying myself is cost-effective.”

Lacy relies on AOPA and the AOPA Air Safety Foundation to help him stay current with critical safety information. “I’m running a business,” he says. “And they’re giving me information that I wouldn’t have the time to get otherwise. It keeps me focused on the important aspects of flying.”

Lacy says he flies “for freedom and control.” And that’s why he supports the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. “Continuing education is a great way to enhance your flying. And supporting the AOPA Air Safety Foundation is a great way to get out there and help the cause.”

DONOR SOCIETY EVENTS: AOPA AND THE AOPA AIR SAFETY FOUNDATION

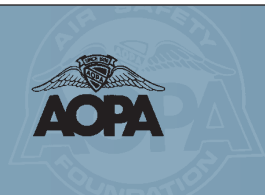

Elegant traditional décor and breathtaking scenery formed the settings for two invitation-only donor society events recognizing the vision and generosity of AOPA Air Safety Foundation donors in 2006.

At Philadelphia's Union League on May 16, AOPA President, Phil Boyer and AOPA Air Safety Foundation Executive Director, Bruce Landsberg hosted more than 50 Donor Society Members and guests from around the country. The event was set in the historic French Renaissance-style League House in downtown Philadelphia. Tom Haas, Charter Member of the AOPA President's Council and Co-Chair of the AOPA Air Safety Foundation's Board of Visitors led the sponsorship of the evening, with Hat in the Ring Society and AOPA Board of Trustees members Paul Heintz and Andy Pew.

Colorado's majestic Front Range was the backdrop for the September 20 Donor Society Dinner.

Bruce Landsberg welcomed members and their guests at the aviation-themed Perfect Landing restaurant overlooking the runways. Adam Aircraft Industries Co-Founder and Chief Executive Officer, Rick Adam arranged a behind-the-scenes tour of the Adam Aircraft facilities located at Centennial Airport. Rick is a Charter Member of the AOPA President's Council. Silver Hat in The Ring Society member Mark Greenberg graciously sponsored the event.

AOPA AIR SAFETY FOUNDATION: DONOR SOCIETIES

The AOPA President's Council

$50,000 (multi-year donation)

The AOPA President's Council is general aviation's most prestigious philanthropic cadre. Membership is extended with a pledge of $50,000 or more, fully payable within five years. Council members meet annually at a private dinner with Phil Boyer and AOPA President's Council Chairman John Nordstrom.

AOPA's Top Philanthropists (ATP)

$10,000 and above (annual giving)

AOPA's Top Philanthropists—affectionately known as "ATPs"—are donors who contribute $10,000 or more in a calendar year. ATP donors may designate their gift to a specific area, to help fund a new initiative, or for the general good of safety and education.

The AOPA Air Safety Foundation Endowment Fund

$10,000 and above (cumulative donation)

Gifts to the AOPA Air Safety Foundation Endowment Fund provide perpetual income for GA safety education programs. You may establish a named-fund with cumulative endowment donations totaling $10,000. Silver, Gold, and Platinum levels are achieved when total funds reach $50,000, $75,000, and $100,000 respectively.

AOPA Hat in the Ring Society

$1,000 and above (annual giving)

Named for the World War I fighter squadron led by legendary ace Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, this Society recognizes philanthropist-pilots who "throw their hats in the ring" with financial support of $1,000 or above in a calendar year. Bronze ($2500) and Silver ($5000) memberships are also available.

AOPA Life Membership Program

$2,500 (one-time donation)

The AOPA Life Member Program, offered exclusively by the AOPA Air Safety Foundation, is available for a one-time donation of $2,500. Eighty percent is tax-deductible. New life members receive a hand-signed framed certificate from Phil Boyer, a special membership card and pin.

All donors, small and large, are important and greatly appreciated. The names of all donors making gifts of $100 or above in 2005 can be found at www.asf.org/sp. Thank you!

CLOSING: AOPA PRESIDENT, PHIL BOYER

Measurability is an important part of the culture at AOPA and the AOPA Air Safety Foundation. For example, we measure the efficiency of our fundraising activities and the numbers of pilots we reach.

Yet there are measures of success that are harder to put into numbers—the lives that are saved and the accidents that do not happen! There also is the value of the Foundation’s dedicated focus on safety as GA’s most fundamentally important issue. While AOPA battles FAA funding and other matters, the AOPA Air Safety Foundation is devoted to improving GA safety—your safety.

Your financial support gives us the strength to maintain and expand that commitment. The strength of the two organizations together is the reason why I say that One AOPA Equals a Safe GA.

Thank you,
